

Building Progression through your RE Agreed Syllabus

The new Ofsted Framework, published in May 2019 for inspections from September 2019, and the research reports leading to this Framework show the importance of the ‘intent’ of the curriculum. This refers to ‘the extent to which the school’s curriculum sets out the knowledge and skills that pupils will gain at each key stage’ (paragraph 168).

We know that when leading RE, within the context of the whole school intent, you need to be clear about the intention of RE. This means being clear about the knowledge and skills your pupils will gain at each key stage in RE, but also how this contributes to the wider school intent and ethos. It also links to the overall purpose of RE in your school, a conversation which has been going on in the RE community for some time. The principal aim for RE in your Agreed Syllabus is:

To engage pupils in systematic enquiry into significant human questions which religions and worldviews address, so that they can develop the understanding and skills needed to appreciate and appraise varied responses to these questions, as well as developing responses of their own (Syllabus p. 6).

Beyond this, it should be clear how RE will contribute to ‘the knowledge and skills that pupils need in order to take advantage of opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life’ (Ofsted, paragraph 170). The contribution that RE can make to preparing pupils for life in modern Britain will be significant.

This document has been written as an accompaniment to your Agreed Syllabus and should be used in conjunction with your Agreed Syllabus when planning the progression of knowledge acquisition and build-up of understanding within a year group, key stage and across a pupil’s study of RE.

Principles for curriculum design: key ideas to bear in mind when you think about your curriculum intent

Your RE curriculum needs to be structured so that it......makes sense to pupils

- Offer a clear structure for learning: in this syllabus, units are based around the three strands of believing, expressing, living (see syllabus p.16-17). Make sure that you enable pupils to connect their learning with these three strands. All religious and non-religious worldviews involve these three strands and while questions may focus on one, they also connect to the other strands. Help pupils to see these connections.
- Use a good grounding of systematic study of individual religions to prepare pupils for thematic study, where they compare religions. For example, you will find that studying two religions separately in the first two terms and then comparing them in the summer term will help pupils to make sense of and build on their learning through the year.

...focuses on core concepts

- Select key ideas and concepts at the heart of religion and worldviews (see suggested content).
- Explore these from different perspectives to enrich understanding (e.g. asking how a religious believer or a non-religious person might respond to a key question or idea, or how believers from different places, times or denominations may respond).
- In general, going deeper is preferable to going broader, given the time constraints. Don't focus on coverage – focus on understanding.

...allows pupils to encounter diverse examples of religion and worldviews

- Offer pupils contemporary, contextual accounts, rather than implying that there is a generic Christianity, Islam or atheism that applies to all followers at all times.
- Show something of the diversity of religion/worldviews (across time and place; within and between traditions) by using examples and case studies.
- Get pupils into texts, not just short quotes, developing skills of reading and interpretation.
- Show connections and differences across religions and beliefs.
- Explore religious and non-religious worldviews.
- Note that 'worldviews' can be personal and institutional, with overlaps and fuzzy edges. (The religions we have traditionally studied in RE may be seen as 'institutional' worldviews, but individual believers within those traditions will have 'personal' worldviews that have common features but are not identical.)

...enables pupils to embed learning in their long-term memory

- Clarify technical terms and check pupil understanding regularly.
- Find creative ways to enable pupils to handle and absorb core knowledge.
- Give pupils repeated opportunities to engage with content.
- Give pupils a chance to revisit and recall knowledge – in thoughtful and engaging ways (i.e. not just quizzing!). For example, through presenting images or texts from previous units for pupils to label, describe, annotate and explain.

...makes space for pupils' own beliefs/worldviews

- Allow pupils to articulate ideas, with reasons, arguments, rebuttals and responses – but leaving space for ambiguity and contradiction.
- Recognise the huge majority of non-religious pupils in RE – and make space for them as a focus for study. What do they believe, why, and how do they live?

...encourages pupils' personal development, applying their learning to living

- Enable pupils to disagree respectfully.
- Engage pupils in handling and applying their learning.
- Give opportunities for pupils to make connections between the ideas studied, the world around them, and within their own worldviews.

Strands and religions

This syllabus has units that fall into three strands. These strands are: believing, expressing and living. The religions suggested for the units are noted under the units. This information can also be found on pages 33, 47 and 71. The units in each strand are:

Principles of progression in this syllabus

Please look at these pages within the syllabus for support with planning for progression:

Page 7

The aims of RE: pupil progress should be assessed in relation to each of these aims. The aims are broken down further into age-related outcomes further on in the syllabus.

Page 13

Religions to be taught to pupils aged 4-5, 5-7, 7-11, 11-14, 14-16 and 16-19. Please note that these are minimum requirements. If schools add any religion or worldview that is not one of those listed within a Key Stage, please ensure that the work fits into the long-term plan.

Pages 16-18

The three strands that run through this syllabus (believing, expressing and living); ensure that there is adequate exploration for each of these three strands in the syllabus. This will guarantee that there is not over-emphasis or exclusion of any of these strands.

Note that Strand 1 (believing) incorporates beliefs, teachings, sources of authority, and questions of meaning, purpose and truth.

Strand 2 (expressing) incorporates religious and spiritual forms of expression; questions about identity and diversity.

Strand 3 (living) incorporates religious practices and ways of living; questions about values and commitments.

Note how the units in each strand build across the key stages showing progression and building of knowledge e.g. in the expressing strand F3 What places are special and why? - 1.5 What makes some places sacred? (Christians, Muslims and/or Jewish people) - L2.4 Why do people pray? (Christians, Hindus and/or Muslims) - U2.4 If God is everywhere, why go to a place of worship? (Christians, Hindus and/or Jewish people) - 3.6 Should religious buildings be sold to feed the starving? (Christians, Muslims and or Sikhs).

Please note, not all schools will choose to teach all of the units suggested for the key stage of pupils for which they cater. However, it is important to choose a balance of units across the three strands, and make sure that if units are missed out, the subject leader ensures there are no gaps in pupils' knowledge and progression of learning.

In mixed-age classes, RE may be arranged on a rolling programme. Units can be combined or split to suit the age range that is being taught, based upon pupils' prior and future learning. For example, a mixed Y2/3 class teacher might plan a unit of work that combines unit 1.5 What makes some places sacred? and L2.4 Why do people pray?

Syllabus units are either systematic or thematic. Systematic units focus on only one religion or worldview e.g. L2.3 Why is Jesus inspiring to some people? (Christian) and thematic where two or more religions or worldviews are looked at e.g. U2.3 What do religions say to us when life gets hard? (Christians, Hindus and non-religious)

Using a planning page

Key Question U2.6 What does it mean to be a Muslim in Britain today?

The principal aim of RE is to engage pupils in systematic enquiry into significant human questions which religion and worldviews address, so that they can develop the understanding and skills needed to appreciate and appraise varied responses to these questions, as well as develop responses of their own.

Strand / Questions / Religions	Learning outcomes (intended to enable pupils to achieve end of key stage outcomes) :	Suggested content for learning: <small>Teachers can select content from these examples, and add more of their own.</small>

When planning a unit look to see what pupils have learnt previously in units in this thread, and where they will go next. Use this to build on previous learning and to do retrieval practice.

This unit is a 'systematic' unit – it focuses on just one religion. Look back to previous learning in systematic and thematic units to check previous learning on Muslims. Use this to build on previous learning and to do retrieval practice.

These are an adaptation of the end of key stage outcomes. They are specific to this unit and its content and should be used when planning and when considering how far pupils have achieved in this unit. These outcomes lead towards the end of key stage outcomes.

The content is selected by the teacher to meet the outcomes in column 2. Through the lessons in this unit ensure that you use strategies to support pupils to remember the content such as retrieval practice and expecting the pupils to use their knowledge in different contexts. Full units of work are available to support these planning pages that give more detailed lesson ideas for teachers from which to plan learning.

Ensure the RE you are teaching meets the aim/purpose/intent of the subject

Sample long-term plans with commentary

Notice that we use systematic units to look at individual religions but enable pupils to build on that learning later in the year in thematic units, comparing more than one religion.

These two thematic units (1.7 and 1.5) in the second half of the year revisit and build on learning about these religions earlier in the year. This allows for similarity and difference work.

Notice that the unit on Christians is split across Year 1 and 2 to allow learning to be built on and retrieved.

Although the syllabus suggests focusing on two religions in depth as a minimum in KS1, this school has chosen to add in a minor focus on a third religion. This prepares for learning in KS2.

The second half of what was studied in Year 1, allowing time to check knowledge and build on learning.

Building on learning about Christians from KS1.

Introduction of an in-depth focus on Hindu people – not studied in depth in KS1 but mentioned in some thematic units. This unit is then built on in another systematic unit in Year 4.

The learning about Christians is built on in the unit focusing on the Bible ... opportunity for more retrieval practice.

The three thematic units (L2.5,2.1,2.4) allow pupils to build on learning about Hindu and Christian people but also bring in, practise and build on learning about Muslim and Jewish people from Year 2.

Year 3	L2.7 What does it mean to be a Christian in Britain today? (part 1)	L2.8 What does it mean to be a Hindu in Britain today? 	Hindus	Christians	Christians and Hindus/Jewish people/Muslims	Christians	Christians, Jewish people, non-religious people (Humanism)	Christians, Hindus and/or Jewish people

Building on learning in the year 3 systematic unit, an opportunity for more retrieval practice but see how this also shows spaced learning.

Continues to build up knowledge and understanding of Christians. Preparation for a focus on Jesus in the second half of spring term.

Choose festivals to focus on that build pupils' knowledge and understanding. As Muslims have not been studied in a systematic unit since Year 2 you may choose to focus on them here.

In these two thematic units at the end of year 4 there is an opportunity to compare and contrast but also to revisit and build on learning in earlier units. Notice that non-religious beliefs are explicitly brought in here. It is expected that these will have been discussed in units earlier e.g. 1.8 How should we care for others and the world? and 2.1 What do different people believe about God?

How do you think knowledge and understanding builds in this Year 5 and 6 long-term plan?

Year 5	U2.1 Why do some people think God exists?	U2.6 What does it mean to be a Muslim in Britain today? (part 1)	U2.7 What matters most to Christians and Humanists?	U2.2 What would Jesus do? Sample KS3 long-term plan

Notice that we start with a unit that is engaging, and which will allow teaching of foundational knowledge as well as diagnostic assessment of what has been learnt prior to transition.

Having spent three half terms building on learning about religions taught at earlier Key Stages, in unit 3.11 and 3.8 moving on to study a religion not previously taught will enable pupils to apply thinking to a new context. Unit 3.11 is re-visited throughout Key Stage 3 to enable meaningful encounters with all religions focused on in the syllabus, teaching foundational knowledge, with a focus on lived religion.

The syllabus recommends unit 3.11 for Year 9, but this school has chosen to place 3.11 in Year 8, focusing on different religions at different stages of every year to ensure good encounter with the religions in the syllabus. Here, it was felt necessary to study lived Christianity before dealing with issues of biblical interpretation.

	Autumn 1	Autumn 2	Spring 1	Spring 2	Summer 1	Summer 2
Year 7	3.3 What is so radical about Jesus?	3.11 What difference does it make to believe in Islam?	3.8 What is good and what is challenging about being a teenage Muslim?	3.11 What difference does it make to believe in Sikhism/Buddhism?	3.8 What is good and what is challenging about being a teenage Sikh/Buddhist?	3.6 Should religious buildings be sold to feed the starving?
Religions/worldviews	Christians	Muslims	Muslims	Sikhs or Buddhists	Sikhs or Buddhists	Muslims, Sikhs, Christians
	3.11 What difference does it make to believe in Christianity?	3.2 Does living biblically mean obeying the whole Bible?	3.11 What difference does it make to believe in Judaism?	3.10 Does religion help people to be good?	3.4 Is death the end? Does it matter?	3.7 How can people express the spirit through music and art?
Religions/worldviews	Christians	Christians	Jewish people	Christians, Muslims, Sikhs, Buddhists, non-religious worldviews	Christians, Buddhists, non-religious worldviews, e.g. Humanists	Choose 2 or 3: Buddhists, Christians, Jewish, Muslims, Sikhs
Year 9	3.11 What difference does it make to believe in... and...	3.5 Why is there suffering? Are there any good solutions?	3.9 Should happiness be the purpose of life?	3.1 Do we need to prove God's existence?	3.12 Is religion a power for peace or a cause of conflict in the world today?	3.10 Does religion help people to be good?
Religions/worldviews	Choose two that have not been previously studied in 3.11: Hindus, plus Buddhists, Sikhs	Christians, Buddhists	Buddhists, Christians, non-religious worldviews such as Humanists	Christian, Buddhist and/or Muslim, non-religious worldviews	Christians, Muslims, Humanists/non-religious worldviews	Christians, Muslims, Sikhs, Buddhists, non-religious worldviews

Note that there are lots of opportunities in unit 3.7 to draw on unit 3.6 (Year 7, Summer 2) revisiting debates about material expressions of faith in places of worship to spending on and responding to artworks.

Notice how we begin the final year of Key Stage 3 with a unit that enables pupils to apply thinking to Hinduism plus a new religion, developing this thinking with comparison and consolidating prior knowledge and understanding. The foundational knowledge will be useful in later units studied.

Note that this unit is split between Year 8 and 9, allowing time to develop authentic viewpoints through further study of religions and after having considered the related unit questioning whether religion promotes peace or conflict.

Another way of considering knowledge progression

This style of expressing knowledge progression builds from the work of Christine Counsell (Twitter: @Counsell_C), as shared with the Princes Trust and in other places.

Year 3	Unit title	Substantive RE content	Recurring substantive content: religions and worldviews, concepts, vocabulary and themes	Why are pupils studying this? What later work is this preparing them for?	Disciplinary aspects of RE
